

Let Us Show You.

We'll enable you to zero in on the ideal system...

Whether you plan to replace an existing ERP system or install one for the first time, just deciding what to purchase can be time consuming and overwhelming. An independent, experienced perspective will cut through the clutter and optimize your adoption, saving you time and money in the long run.

The ERP selection strategists at M&M Business Solutions (a Meaden & Moore Company) follow a proven selection methodology to help you zero in on the ideal system to fit your specific business and operational needs.

Meaden & Moore

Let Us Show You.

First, we will examine your business operations and goals. Next, we help define detailed business needs from our database of more than 2,000 functional and technological criteria. Then we will identify technology solutions most appropriate for your budget and organization based on our experience with and knowledge of more than 100 leading ERP packages.

Finally, our knowledgeable, objective consultants will guide your team through our proven process to ensure your organization selects the right solution for your company. Optionally, our team will continue assisting your ERP project team with installation, implementation, and support.

M&M Business Solutions' strategists understand your organization's concerns and challenges because we all have industry expertise in manufacturing, finance, sales, and information technology. When it is time to construct your business case, our five-year, discounted cash flow model will summarize the return on investment for your senior management's approval.

M&M Business Solutions' established track record with business software selection rests on four components:

Objectivity – We do not represent or sell any software packages, and we don't accept commissions or finders' fees from the software providers that we recommend. Our goal is to serve our clients, not the software companies.

Structure – We bring our clients a structured, four-phase approach that results in thorough analysis and informed decisions.

Experience – All of our consultants are former industry practitioners with experience using business software.

Research – We purchase independent research and maintain our own knowledge base regarding the business application software industry, enabling us to share objective, honest, and quantifiable observations about particular vendors and packages with our clients.

Call 216.241.3272 for to ask about additional services or for more information about Meaden & Moore's capabilities.

We'll guide
your team through our proven process...

216.241.3272 meadenmoore.com